

Excerpts From a Letter About His Eugene O'Neill Stamps

Ted Kaczynski

Sure enough Kaczynski, in his reply to my letter inquiring about his political connection to the playwright, claimed the FBI's link of him to O'Neill was "bull manure." "I've never had the faintest interest in Eugene O'Neill," he wrote in a carefully printed hand, "and I've never read anything by him, unless perhaps I was required to read something of his in a high-school English course, in which case I promptly forgot it." He thanked me for the correspondence, but warned me not to "believe anything you've read or heard about me in the media or on the Internet ... I simply bought stamps of a specified denomination, and I took whatever stamps of that denomination were handed to me over the counter or came out of the vending machine."

A critique of his ideas & actions.
